With roadway improvement alternatives being floated around the Paoli Train Station, staff from PennDOT will be on hand next week to discuss the project and answer questions from the public.

Staff will hold an info session from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday, March 6 at the Tredyffrin Township Building 1100 Duportail Road, Berwyn.

The Paoli Transportation Center Highway Improvements Project is Phase 2 of the Paoli Intermodal Transportation Center project, according to engineering firm Michael Baker International.

The project is comprised of three phases.

Phase 1 is currently in construction and includes improvements to the Paoli train station and ADA enhancements.

Phase 2 builds off of Phase 1 work and includes highway improvements associated with the Relocated North Valley Road over the Amtrak railroad tracks, removal of the existing North Valley Road Bridge over the tracks, and modifications to the parking lots on both sides of the tracks, according to the firm.
